Hostel homing in on training accolades

18 August 2010

A hostel and life skills centre for the homeless is in line for a clutch of training awards.

Anchor House, Barking Road, Canning Town, has been nominated for the National Training Awards run by UK Skills on behalf of the Government.

Anchor House Chief Executive Keith Fernett has been shortlisted for a National Charity Principal of the Year Award.

Aggie Chikiwa, the centre's Employment and Training Co-ordinator, has been shortlisted for a National Training Award for Inspiration in Training and Education.

Anchor House, providing more than 100 beds for homeless people and vocational and E-learning courses for more than 1000 local unemployed, has itself has been shortlisted for a National Training Award for Service Delivery.

The awards will be held in London in October.
